THE PRIMARY MISSION OF CATHOLIC THEOLOGICAL UNION IS THE ACADEMIC AND PASTORAL FORMATION OF STUDENTS PREPARING FOR THE PRIESTHOOD AND A VARIETY OF OTHER MINISTRIES IN THE UNITED STATES AND AROUND THE WORLD. THE SCHOOL ALSO PROVIDES CONTINUING THEOLOGICAL EDUCATION FOR CLERGY, RELIGIOUS AND LAY PERSONS. CTU IS COMMITTED TO THEOLOGICAL EDUCATION AND SCHOLARSHIP WITHIN A COMMUNITY OF FAITH IN INTERACTION WITH A LIVING CATHOLIC TRADITION AND ECUMENICAL, INTERFAITH AND CROSS-CULTURAL PERSPECTIVES AND RESOURCES. THROUGH ITS DEGREE PROGRAMS AND OTHER EDUCATIONAL AND FORMATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES, CTU STRIVES TO EDUCATE EFFECTIVE LEADERS FOR THE CHURCH WHOSE MISSION IS TO WITNESS TO CHRIST’S GOOD NEWS OF JUSTICE, LOVE AND PEACE TO PEOPLE OF ALL NATIONS.
Dear Friends of CTU,

It is an honor to report to you on the state of Catholic Theological Union for the 2007-08 academic year. We strive to be true to our mission, whose spirit and scope are captured in the title of this year’s report: “To Serve the World.” For me the phrase recalls one of the most provocative sayings of Jesus, found in the Gospel of Matthew. When asked by his disciples to explain the parable about a field sowed with both wheat and weeds, Jesus replies: “The field is the world.” Yes, not simply the Church, or Jesus’ beloved Israel, but the world itself with all of its diverse peoples. That world, broken and confused yet created and cherished by God, is what we, too, are called to serve.

40 YEARS OF SERVICE

This past year we celebrated our 40th anniversary. CTU began in the fall of 1968 as the merger of three previously existing religious order seminaries—the Franciscans, the Passionists, and the Servites. Each of these communities pulled up stakes at their own thriving operations in order to create something new and to be able to provide a quality of theological education that none of them separately could hope to achieve.

The original inspiration for this new venture was a speech given in May of 1964 at the University of Chicago by Cardinal Joseph Suenens, the primate of Belgium and one of the leading architects of the momentous Second Vatican Council. Cardinal Suenens had been invited by Dr. Gerald Brauer, then the Dean of the Divinity School and a great Lutheran scholar, to speak on the topic of seminary and theological education in the wake of the Vatican Council. In his remarks, Suenens said that the theology school of the future should be located in an urban setting so that it would be in touch with the full scope of human experience, it should be ecumenical in spirit, and it should be in proximity to a great University to accept the challenge of preparing students for ministry with the same rigor and academic excellence as society expected of a University.

Dean Brauer was very moved by this vision and invited some Catholic friends to consider the impossible dream of creating a new Catholic school of theology near the University where there was as yet no Catholic academic institutional presence.

Thus began a conversation that would lead ultimately to the creation of Catholic Theological Union. At the outset, CTU consisted of the merger of three Catholic religious community seminaries—and now has grown to be a union of twenty-five different religious communities! The original student body was all seminarians except for one sole—and no doubt heroic—religious sister. Today CTU’s 500 strong graduate student body is composed not only of seminarians from our various communities, but also large numbers of lay men and women preparing for lives of service. The first campus was the old Aragon Hotel and now the school is grateful to have a brand new academic center and a completely renovated residence building.
The summer and fall of 1968 was an auspicious time to try to begin anything new. While the country took pride in the fact that American astronauts had orbited the moon for the first time (a year later Neil Armstrong would plant his footprint there), most of the news was terrible. The war in Vietnam was raging and the country seemed torn apart. Great American leaders such as Martin Luther King, Jr. and Robert Kennedy were tragically cut down by assassins’ bullets. Chicago burned with anger and frustration as a result. In Chicago’s downtown Grant Park, violent riots shook the city’s confidence and clouded its reputation. The springtime rise of freedom in Czechoslovakia was crushed by Russian tanks, a singular low point in the Cold War.

But it was in this moment, a moment of trouble and anxiety, that courageous and far-sighted people were willing to create something new. And that gamble—or better—that trust in God’s providence has been rewarded. CTU has developed from a bold but fragile experiment, to become the largest Catholic graduate school of theology in the United States, with several thousand graduates serving in every corner of the world.

OUR MISSION: TO SERVE THE WORLD

The violent divisions that marked the summer of 1968 have taken some new forms, but they still fester. The United States is embroiled in warfare in Iraq and Afghanistan. We worry about the spread of nuclear weapons, especially on the part of Iran. Tension and violence still divide the Holyland where Abraham and Jesus walked. We are in the midst of calamitous economic woes. And divisions between races, religious groups and economic classes simmer right below the surface, including in our own country and our own cities. CTU’s mission of preparing men and women who will be ambassadors of peace and bridge builders across sharp divides is more urgent than ever and just as valid as the day the doors of our school opened 40 years ago.

This mission of peacemaking and fostering community within the Church and within the world itself is woven into the heart of our educational enterprise. We believe it is essential for the Church to prepare priests and lay ministers who understand our diverse and often divided world, who know how to effect reconciliation and peacemaking, and can lead vibrant communities of faith. Our newly revised curriculum roots our students in the heart of their Catholic faith—an essential requirement for being able to reach out to others. But at the same time we equip our graduates with knowledge and respect about other traditions. One required course for our degree students is entitled “Abraham’s Children” and is taught jointly by Catholic, Muslim and Jewish professors.

The entire curriculum is designed to make our students aware of and respectful towards the global Church with its diverse cultures and unique histories. That perspective is reinforced by the fact that more than 30% of our student body is made up of international students, hailing from more than 40 countries worldwide.
This past year, our Bernardin Center, which includes interreligious dialogue among its key missions, hosted a series of dialogue sessions entitled “In Good Faith,” which brought together 100 key leaders from the Jewish, Christian and Muslim communities. Our newly inaugurated Master of Arts program with a concentration in Interreligious Dialogue has attracted students from all over the world and includes participants from all three Abrahamic faiths. This spring we were thrilled to have our first Muslim and Jewish graduates march in the commencement ceremony alongside their Catholic fellow students! At our annual Trustee Dinner in April we were pleased to honor Notre Dame University’s Kroc Center for International Peace Studies, a close partner with our own educational efforts. And this past summer, in collaboration with the American Jewish Committee, CTU hosted a unique effort that brought together Hispanic seminarians and their Jewish counterparts to build mutual understanding between these two vital communities. Through the Bernardin Center’s “Peacebuilders Initiative,” CTU is also able to reach out to outstanding high school students and through its “Catholics On Call” program to young adults. In each of these Lilly Endowment supported programs, we prepare a new generation of Catholics to choose lives of service to the world.

The beautiful assembly room and meeting space in our new Academic and Conference Center also amplifies our outreach, enabling us to host scores of lectures, workshops and programs throughout the year.

“We believe it is essential for the church to prepare priests and lay ministers who understand our diverse and often divided world, who know how to effect reconciliation and peacemaking, and can lead vibrant communities of faith.”
CTU’S FINANCIAL HEALTH

Thanks to the generosity of our donors and the strong oversight of our Board of Trustees, CTU remains in sound financial health. At the same time, the severe economic challenges facing the United States and the global economy have an impact on us as well. While the overall population of our student body has held steady, some students take fewer courses per semester because of financial constraints, putting stress on our tuition income—still a major source of revenue. Some of our lay graduates find the job market tighter in church-related institutions or other social service agencies because of budget cutbacks. Our sponsoring religious communities who have consistently been generous supporters of CTU also have mounting costs for retirement and health care. As food and energy costs have mounted, we experience more pressures on our operating budget.

All of this leads us to more belt-tightening and prudent care in maintaining a healthy financial position. It also reminds us acutely of how much we depend on the gifts and grants from generous supporters that are the lifeblood of an institution like CTU.

Signs of that generosity are all around us. At the conclusion of this calendar year we will have arrived at the successful conclusion of our 20 million dollar capital campaign, which has reached the 96% mark at the end of the 2007-08 fiscal year. The proceeds of the campaign have greatly strengthened CTU, enabling us to renew our campus and increase our scholarship support for students in need. Our goals for the future will now focus increasingly on scholarship support for the extraordinary young men and women who feel God’s call to service.

“THE MISSION OF CTU IS TO SERVE NOT ONLY OUR CURRENT AND FUTURE STUDENTS BUT ALSO TO REACH OUT TO THE WIDER COMMUNITY AND TO OFFER THE BEAUTY OF THE CATHOLIC TRADITION AND TEACHING TO THE WORLD AROUND US.”
During the campaign, our level of annual support remained strong—always a challenge for any fundraising efforts. Generous grants from the Lilly Endowment, the Henry Luce Foundation, The Brach Foundation, the Mazza Foundation, and The Frank J. Lewis Foundation—to name a few—have also provided vital support of key programs and scholarship opportunities.

NEW EXTERNAL RELATIONS DEPARTMENT

To intensify CTU's outreach to the wider community, we have added this year a new Department of External Relations, which draws together our efforts in marketing, media relations, recruitment, and development. Mr. Brian Murphy, a CTU graduate with long experience in development work, heads the department as Vice President for External Relations. Other new members are Director of Development, Ms. Anne Marie Tirpak, who comes to CTU from her work in the Archdiocese of Chicago stewardship department, and Ms. Elizabeth Jennings White who takes over the newly formed position of Director of Public Information and Media Relations. These new members of the CTU family work together with Ms. Kathy Van Duser, another CTU graduate, who has served for several years as CTU's tireless Director of Recruitment and Admissions.

The mission of CTU is to serve not only our current and future students but also to reach out to the wider community and to offer the beauty of the Catholic tradition and teaching to the world around us. We believe this is an important part of the religious community heritage that founded and continues to sustain CTU. Through this new department we plan to remain true to that legacy.

OUR GRATITUDE

Pope Benedict XVI has designated this year, beginning in June 2008, as the “Year of Paul,” commemorating the 2000th anniversary of the Apostle's birth. As president of CTU I take comfort in the fact that one of Paul's major projects was to take up a collection for the poor of Jerusalem from each of the communities he had established in the Gentile world. As a fundraiser, Paul experienced firsthand the generosity of people and knew that finding the right words to express gratitude to them seemed impossible. In thanking each of you for your support of the mission of CTU, I will borrow Paul's eloquent words: I give thanks to my God at every remembrance of you, praying always with joy in my every prayer for all of you, because of your partnership for the gospel from the first day until now (Letter to the Philippians 1:3).

Fr. Donald Senior, C.P.
President
Greetings,

At our 40th commencement this past May, Dr. Bernie McGinn stood up to say a few words about receiving an honorary doctorate at CTU. But before he launched into his prepared text, he said, “I have known CTU for years. But sitting here, it strikes me that CTU educates the world.”

He was responding to a reality that we at CTU know so well — we probably have one of the most diverse student bodies of any theology school in this country. Our students come from every inhabited continent. While here, they have the opportunity to learn from one another and experience the global Church in real, concrete ways. And when they leave us, they return to villages, towns, and cities throughout the world better prepared to serve the people of God. We believe this is one of CTU’s greatest strengths.

This past year we celebrated our 40th academic year. In this historic year, we launched a pilot in our MA program, a new concentration in Interreligious dialogue, which focuses on the Abrahamic faith traditions – Catholic Christian, Jewish, and Muslim. Interestingly, this very same year we had our first Jewish graduate, Sarah Bier, who received an MA in theology with a comparative focus on Jewish, Christian, and Muslim scripture and our first Muslim graduate, Syafa Almirzanah, who received a Doctor of Ministry degree with a focus on Christian-Muslim relations. In these challenging times, it is our hope that this new degree will offer an opportunity for individuals to be leaders within their own communities where they can help to build bridges among peoples.

We are also looking toward the future, expanding our distance learning programs and continuing education opportunities. It is our hope that through the use of technology and the Summer Institute we will be able to reach students who otherwise would not be able to learn at CTU.

On behalf of the faculty and students, I want to thank you for your continued support. It is through your generosity that we are able to prepare our students to go out to serve the world!

Sincerely,

Gary Riebe-Estrella, S.V.D.
Vice President and Academic Dean

Greetings,

The administrative and financial staff plays a large role in creating an environment and atmosphere of community for our students so they can enjoy and maximize their learning experience at CTU. We help CTU to serve the world as we provide services to all of our students, many of whom come from outside the United States. We try hard to make our students and guests feel welcome and comfortable. We are the service departments of CTU and it’s our job to assist all individuals who come through our doors. Our staff believes in the mission of CTU, and they show it in the way they greet students and guests as well as how they attend to their daily tasks.

We are all proud of our newly renovated campus and are working hard to ensure the facilities are properly maintained. Our students are enjoying the new Academic and Conference Center with spacious classrooms, a state-of-the-art library, the atrium and Atrium Cafe (a casual meeting place for coffee, food and conversation) and the meditation and worship spaces. The new building will accommodate the steadily growing student body, as well as a portfolio of public programs and events all of which afford opportunities for community learning and living here at CTU. CTU’s conference center hosts programs and participants from around the world, offering students and the wider community opportunities for learning about, and ministering to, the world.

Our resident students are enjoying the restored Residence Hall and Student Center with refurbished rooms, lounges, a new full-service dining room, chapel and computer lab. Here the resident students can meet on various social occasions, participate in regular residential life gatherings, and join together in facilitating a rich liturgical life enhanced by contributions from our students’ varied cultures and backgrounds.

The financial situation of the school is strong, although we do rely on the support of the friends of CTU for their generous donations. We take pride in operating the school as our home, being frugal and creative in these uncertain economic times as we endeavor to be the best stewards of our resources and the gracious gifts from our donors in service to CTU.

Sincerely,

Michael W. Connors

Greetings,

When I walk through the doors of CTU I am grateful. I am grateful that the visionary and courageous founders created this school in 1968; that thousands have entrusted their theological education to the faculty and staff that have taught and worked here for forty years; for the generosity of the donors who have helped make this place for faith possible.

As an alumnus, I know firsthand the great gift CTU is to our Church. It is both a personal joy and a professional challenge to now head the External Relations function of this wonderful school.

In Fr. Don’s letter he introduced the members of our External Relations team. In Kathy Van Duser, our Director of Admissions and Recruitment, Anne Marie Tirpak, Director of Development, and Elizabeth Jennings White, Director of Public Information and Media Relations, I could not ask for better professionals to work with to advance the school in all the ways that we interact with the community around us. All have graduate level theological training and deeply understand the mission of CTU.

We, the External Relations team, will work to attract students to our door, to communicate our message to the greater community and to expand our philanthropic funding sources so that we can sustain and grow this important mission for the future of the Church and the world. We will work with religious communities, area dioceses, parishes, colleges and universities, Catholics and friends from other faith traditions, in this country and around the world, and with others who are interested in helping to prepare men and women to serve the world. But we cannot do this alone. We need the friends of CTU to share the story of this community with potential students and with individuals, foundations and corporations who can offer philanthropic support. It’s a great story to tell!

The following is a list of donors who generously supported CTU during the 2007-08 academic year ending June 30, 2008. Thank you so much for your continued commitment. I look forward to working with you.

With gratitude,

Brian J. Murphy
Vice President for External Relations
"WE NEED THE FRIENDS OF CTU TO SHARE THE STORY OF THIS COMMUNITY WITH POTENTIAL STUDENTS AND WITH INDIVIDUALS, FOUNDATIONS AND CORPORATIONS WHO CAN OFFER PHILANTHROPIC SUPPORT."
The generosity of our donors provides Catholic Theological Union with the resources to continue its mission. Financial support was received from these individuals, foundations, corporations, and other organizations from July 1, 2007 through June 30, 2008.
